1933 BUDGETS CUT IN COUNTY BY $123,865

Thirty of 40 Political Subdivisions Lower Requests for Next Year.

START WORK ON TAX RATE

Total To Be Raised by Levies on Property Here Is $1,400,813.

Marion county's various political sub-divisions will need $123,865.90 less for operating expenses and debts next year than was requested in 1932, it was revealed today as the final budgets were submitted to County Auditor Earl E. Thomas. The budget calls for a total of $1,400,813.54.

As members of the county budget commission began work on the tax duplicate, it was pointed out that of the 40 political sub-divisions in the county only eight are requesting more money for 1933 than was sought this year. Two others are asking for the same amount.

Districts asking for less money have made decreases in their requests ranging from $82 to $70,718. The small decrease was reported from Prospect while the Marion city schools cut their budget requests the maximum amount despite an increase of nearly $4,000 in the fund needed to retire bonds next year.

County Asks Less

A drastic cut in operating expenses and a decreased debt resulted in the county government asking for $62,000 less.

The total decrease in the townships was $11,661 while the corporations outside of Marion are asking for $5,084 less. Village and township school districts have sliced their budgets a total of $17,368 under this year.

Most of the decreases in the township budgets resulted in trustees drastically cutting or entirely eliminating requests for road and bridge work. As a whole, the amounts sought for the township general funds remain practically unchanged.

Among the villages making cuts, LaRue showed the greatest decrease. Slices made in the general and sinking fund requests amounted to $2,815.

Practically all the decreases reported by the village and township school district were made in the general funds. The amounts needed for bond retirement next year was practically unchanged.

Marion city is asking $32,967.10 more than this year. The city is asking $100,000 for poor relief purposes, nearly four times the amount needed for debt purposes and other parts of the budget resulted in the increases being kept near the $32,000 mark.

Other increases reported were: Grand township, $200 in the general fund; Morral village, $700 in the general fund despite a decrease of $400 in the sinking fund; New Bloomington (Agosta), $6 in the general fund; Caledonia village school district, $2,100 in the general fund; Montgomery township schools, $1,642 in the general fund; Prospect village school district.

Plea on Cruelty Charge Slated for Mother of Girl Kept in Corn Crib.

Mrs. Emmert Stoner of near Agosta will be arraigned in municipal court Friday morning on charges of locking her feeble-minded daughter in a corn crib without sufficient clothing, food and shelter.

Her husband, who will be given a trial Friday at 9 a. m. on the charges, is still in the county jail unable to furnish bond. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday morning.

In the meantime county authorities were renewing their efforts to have the 19-year-old Pauline Stoner placed in an institution for the feeble minded.

The last four years efforts have been made to have the girl placed in an institution. Each time there has been a technicality arise and it was not until recently that commitment papers were approved. However, the superintendent of the state institution declared that there was no room for the pallent and that she must await her turn.

The girl still is at the Stoner home near Agosta.

SCHOOLBOY, 6, HIT BY TRUCK

Richard Cleveland Critically Hurt in Mishap Near Home of Parents.

SKULL IS FRACTURED

Driver of Machine Takes Lad and Mother to City Hospital.

Richard Cleveland, 6 of 660 East Center street lay critically injured this afternoon at City hospital where he was taken after he was struck by a truck at Center and Carhart streets at noon today.

The boy returning home for lunch from the first grade of the Greenwood street school, was struck by a truck belonging to the Italian Bakery of Mansfield. The fender of the truck hit him, throwing him into the air. The right side of his head struck the pavement, fracturing the skull.

His mother, Mrs. LeRoy Cleveland told friends that she did not believe the boy saw the truck coming from the west when he started across the street. The accident occurred in front of the Cleveland home. The driver, whose identity was not known to police, stopped the truck, and took the child and his mother to City hospital.

No report of the accident was made to police. Several persons who were on the street when the accident occurred, said that they heard the brakes of the truck, and that it was stopped a few yards from the north curb when the driver got out and picked up the child, lying in the middle of the street.

One of the boy's shoes was torn off, and one ankle was scratched.

SEN. BORAH'S WIFE HAS PARROT FEVER

Infrequent Malady Attacks Mrs. Borah But Improvement Is Seen.

By The Associated Press

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 22—The illness of Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the Idaho senator, had been diagnosed by her physician as psittacosis or parrot fever.

Dr. Ralph Falk, the attending physician, diagnosed Mrs. Borah's ailment yesterday after consultation with other physicians. Mrs. Borah was reported improving.

She is believed to have contracted the disease, first diagnosed as influenza, from a parrakeet which died at her home a week ago. Mrs. Borah purchased two parrakeets, or love birds, three weeks ago and tended them herself, friends said.

A psittacosis epidemic that swept into 13 states in 1929 took 20 lives out of a total of 169 cases, and finally was stopped by a ban placed on the importation of parrots.

No Mystery in Machine Shop for Woman Teacher

Vernon Instructor Holds One of Few Degrees in Industrial Art.

ONE of the proudest and happiest women in the state today is Miss Grace Colvin of 733 East Church street. She is proud because she has fulfilled an ambition that has goaded her on since childhood, and happy that the fulfillment is just what she's always pictured. This year she is in complete charge of the industrial arts course at the Vernon Heights Junior High school.

Miss Colvin is one of three or four women in Ohio with a degree in practical arts and vocational education. Her degree was awarded at the summer convocation at Ohio State university.

The world of saws, lathes, motors, hand planes and soldering furnaces is one not familiar to women. Miss Colvin made this world her world when she was a freshman in high school at Tacoma, Wash. She insisted that she be permitted to take up mechanical drawing and woodwork. At first she wanted to be an engineer, and she went through high school, each year becoming more interested in her industrial arts course.

HIGH school finished, she enrolled in an engineering course at the University of Washington. The university lands stood it for two years, having a woman in an engineering course, and then they asked her to drop it.

The university no longer held any promise to her and she dropped out, going to work in an office for a year. Then she went to normal school and completed her work. During the time she taught in the west she spent two summers attending the branch Pullman college at Puyallup, Wash., and took up shop work. She couldn't stay away from the sound, the sawdust, the smell of glue and paint and the feel of a hammer in her hand.

For one summer she attended the Art institute in Chicago and in 1931 began the summer course at Ohio State university that led to her degree last month.

The thrill of really doing things with wood and steel and concrete comes to Miss Colvin naturally. Her brother, Robert E. Colvin is a construction engineer of no little

NATIONAL G. A. R. LEADER CHOSEN

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 22—Capt. William P. Wright, 88, of Chicago, today unanimously was elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, succeeding Samuel P. Town of Philadelphia.

A committee of the G. A. R. has approved a plan for the erection of a $250,000 memorial near the tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

It is the intent to build a vast amphitheater in a hillside given back of the chamber where Lincoln's body has been in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Proponents of the plan of the sixty-sixth encampment, favor asking school children to contribute the necessary fund in pennies.

The resolutions committee headed by Past Commander James Willett of Texas, Iowa, tabled all resolutions of a political nature. One draft submitted would have placed the G. A. R. on record as endorsing President Hoover.

The encampment will break up tomorrow and meet in St. Paul next September.

WOMEN MAP OUT PLANS FOR WELFARE WORK

Program for Furnishing Marion's Needy Clothing Discussed at Meeting.

WORLD WAR PLAN REVIVED

All Women of City Invited To Take Part in Relief Service.

Marion women's clubs, societies, groups and individuals were challenged to help meet the city's welfare problem last night at a meeting at Dr. Carl W. Sawyer's White Oaks farm.

The problem of furnishing clothing to more than 1,300 needy families this winter was discussed by 80 women who represented 30 organizations of the city.

Listeners were carried back to World war days when virtually every woman was doing her "bit" by sewing for the soldiers across the sea.

Practically the same plan used in those days will be followed out this year, according to Miss Alice Hane, who with three other members of a committee, has been arranging plans for furnishing clothes. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Mabel Chapman Owens, Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer and Mrs. J. G. McNamara.

King's Daughters To Help

The King's Daughters of Marion will be asked to take over the operation of the clothing division of the relief center in the Davids Street school building. Mrs. French Crow, president of the City Union of King's Daughters, said she had talked to a majority of the members of the union and they favored the plan.

A paid worker, financed by the various clubs caring to aid in the work, will be in charge of the second floor of the relief center. She will direct the distribution of material for making garments and supervise the giving out of the finished products.

Miss Hane said that 9,000 yards of shirting will be received by Marion county from the federal government through the Red Cross probably on Friday. This will be enough for 3,000 shirts. A total of 24,000 yards of cloth will be received here this winter. She said this amount would supply the needs here for a six-month period.

The plan for making this material into garments will be the same as used during the war. Two cutting machines, left over from the war days, will be pressed into

CANTON YOUTH DIES OF STRANGE MALADY

Three Others in Family Critically Ill; Sickness Baffles Physicians.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Sept. 22—A strange malady today had claimed the life of an 11-year-old Canton boy and put his two sisters and an older brother in a critical condition in a local hospital.

William M. Johns, the victim, died early today. His death was ascribed to unknown causes.

The other three in the hospital are Andrew, 13; Charlotte Ann, 9, and Wanda Mae, 7. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johns.

Six physicians, called into the case by Coroner T. C. McQuate, assisted in a post mortem which failed to reveal the cause of death. Laboratory tests of vital organs were to be made today.

Examination of fluid in the boy's spinal column indicated, Coroner McQuate said, that death was not due to infantile paralysis. Another examination of the boy's stomach failed to reveal any traces of poisoning.

All except William recovered consciousness early today but were still reported in critical condition. Physicians said they were baffled in treating the cases.

THIRD VENIRE USED FOR MASCHKE JURY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 22—A third venire of 36 members was available today as the process went on of selecting a jury to try Maurice Maschke, Republican leader, and five co-defendants in Cuyahoga county's $177,000 embezzlement case.

A tentative jury was completed yesterday, but both state and defense were expected to exercise several peremptory challenges today. Counsel for both sides proceeded cautiously in choosing the jurors and were further delayed because many of the veniremen were found to have formed opinions in the case.

WHITE POINTS OUT PRINCIPAL ISSUE

By The Associated Press

TROY, O., Sept. 22 — The outstanding issue of the Ohio campaign, Gov. George White declared in an address prepared for delivery at a Democratic rally here today, is whether the people desire to continue in office an administration "sound and economical" or an "untested crew, with steering orders coming from political bosses in Cleveland and Toledo."

The governor reviewed the results of his administration during the last two years and called attention to the reductions in appropriations, and other economy moves fostered by himself.

Giving Advice

(With Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Sept. 22—Well, we are off again to our old trait. We are not supposed to meddle in foreign affairs, so we don't tell Germany she "can't arm," we "advise her not to."

Now there is nothing that makes a nation, or an individual as mad as to have somebody say, "now this is really none of my business, but I am just advising you."

They never will get anywhere with this disarmament, for no nation can tell another nation what they need to defend themselves. That's a personal affair. If I sleep with a gun under my pillow I don't want somebody across the street to "advise" me that I don't need it.

Yours,

Will Rogers

JOE COFAGNO UNDER ARREST AFTER BLAST

Explosion Wrecks West Center Street Residence of Frank Vigelo Family.

OLD QUARREL BLAMED

Four Persons Asleep in Building Thrown from Beds; Girl Injured.

A bomb, believed by police to have been filled with black powder and exploding with terrific force, wrecked a porch and tore a hole in the siding of the residence of Frank Vigelo at 1006 West Center street shortly after 2 a. m. today.

Miss Jeanette Vigelo who was sleeping in an upstairs room over the porch was thrown from her bed by the force of the explosion receiving injuries to her back. Mr. and Mrs. Vigelo were sleeping in a room on the west side of the house and a roomer, Frank Spraka, who was also asleep on the second floor, escaped injury.

Three hours after the explosion, Joe Cafagno, 29, of Delaware, a son-in-law of Vigelo was arrested at his home in that city by Police Chief W. E. Marks and Delaware police, charged with placing the bomb. The arrest was made on an affidavit filed in municipal court by Vigelo. Members of the family this morning refused to elaborate on the charge or give any reason why the son-in-law should be suspected. "Just family trouble" was the explanation given by Jeanette Vigelo.

Neighbor Tells Story

Benjamin Brown who lives in the house on the east side of the Vigelo residence said this morning he had been thrown from his bed by the explosion. All of the windows in the fronts of houses on the opposite side of the street were broken.

The bomb had been placed in the corner of a porch on the east side of the house. The explosion which followed practically destroyed the porch. Two doors leading from the porch into the house were torn from their hinges. All of the windows in the house were broken.

Miss Vigelo said her bed was raised up in the air and she and the mattress was thrown almost to the opposite side of the room, so terrific was the explosion.

A parlor suite in the front room was scattered about the room and several pieces were badly broken as were several pieces in a dining room adjoining the porch.

Immediately after the explosion Vigelo filed the affidavit for the arrest of his son-in-law, telling police there had been family trouble.

Cafagno, according to the police, eloped with Anna Vigelo, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vigelo several years ago and since that time a bitter feeling has existed between them. This feeling was aggravated when Cafagno ran away with a 14-year-old Marion county girl in 1929, deserting his wife, Anna. Later Cafagno was arrested on a Mann act charge. According to police he served time in a federal prison. Cafagno was arrested in Seattle, Wash., about a year after he left here with the girl. His wife died last February. If, was expected he would be questioned this afternoon.

Witness Sees Car

One of the neighbors told police this morning he had seen a car drive up in front of the Vigelo home a few minutes before the explosion and that a man had alighted and walked up on the porch. After a few seconds, the witness said, he saw the man run from the house, jump in the car and drive west.

A report that an Erie caller who was passing the house at the time and obtained the license number of the car, could not be verified today.

Vigelo conducts a small grocery in a room adjoining his residence.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vigelo and the roomer were thrown from their beds by the explosion. The force also drove a doorknob from one of the front doors across the room and through a small window into the grocery store, breaking the glass in a scale.

IOWA GOVERNOR IN APPEAL FOR HOOVER

Urges G. O. P. Elevators to Speak at Sidney, O., Republican Rally.

By The Associated Press

SIDNEY, O., Sept. 22—Ohio voters were urged by former Governor W. L. Harding of Iowa, last night, "not to swap horses in the middle of the stream," with reference to the coming presidential election.

Addressing a Republican rally here, Harding said President Hoover is endeavoring to solve unemployment by urging shorter hours to provide a wider distribution of jobs, and that he has "led the way for the financiers of the country with the Reconstruction Finance corporation and other similar aids."

Harding said the Republican party is "constructive" and the Democratic "the party of confusion and backsliding."

COACHES END STIFF WORKOUTS AS FIRST CONFLICTS APPROACH

Polishing-Up Process Commences Today in Majority of Camps.

By The Associated Press

The "polishing" process began today in the camps of most of Ohio's collegiate football teams, though many others were still being coached in fundamentals.

Squads facing the season's first games this week-end, eased up on scrimmaging and gave a major part of their attention to such things as trick plays, passing, kicking, and strategy.

Coach Joe Mayer at Xavier selected John McCleary, a sophomore, to play right half against Transylvania tomorrow night, and thereby gave the backfield a "triple-threat" man.

Three sophomores also were picked to start for Wittenberg against Indiana Central Normal, Friday night. They are William Clauss, quarterback, Alloway, left half, and Luther Hanshue, center. The rest of the team will be veterans.

Ohio Wesleyan is all set for Wilmington, Saturday, except for the selection of end men. Two sophomores, Floyd Kennaw and Ray Harley, are possible choices.

Coach Stuart Holcomb at Findlay faces the Dayton game, Friday night, with several good players still benched by injuries.

Ohio university expects to win Saturday, from Rio Grande, but is counting on a scrappy battle.

Rapidly rounding into form, Cincinnati also is confident of success against Hanover, Saturday night. Two assistant coaches, Cliff Goldmeyer of Cincinnati, and John Herman of Dayton, have been assigned to the Bearcats' freshman.

Night practice was ordered for the Ashland squad to round out the training for Friday night's game against Cedarville.

The first casualty of the season at Kent State is Quido "Carnera" Larussa, of Ravenna, who suffered a brain concussion in a practice session accident.

Wooster has three players handicapped with sprained ankles, and Granville has lost Tom French, promising sophomore back, for an indefinite period with an injured foot.

BOHYER UNDECIDED ON STARTING TEAM

Presidents Show Some Promise but Are Hardly Ready for Tough Opposition.

Facing a far tougher opening game than the average mentor cares to think about, and that only two days in the future, Coach D. N. Bohyer, is expected to put his Harding High charges through a stiff workout at the silk mill field today in an attempt to iron out at least part of the team's numerous rough spots. Today's drill will be the last strenuous workout before the inaugural clash with the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets Saturday on the foe's home field. A short signal drill Friday will complete the preliminary work for the start of a fairly rigorous nine-game schedule.

Despite the fact that the Presidents are going to tackle a tough opponent Saturday, there is no certainty at present what 11 men will form the Harding machine. Several individuals are assured positions at some place or another but just where they will be placed is very much in doubt.

Lineup Uncertain

The battle for the flank positions has been narrowed down to three men, Jack Bray, Bob Foltz and Oliver Hagan. Which two will start is pretty much up in the air. Foltz may possibly be shifted to a tackle post at the last minute in which case, Hagan and Bray are also almost certain flankers.

Lowell Firstenberger and Carl McDaniel, two husky lads, have the inside track in the tackle race. Both weigh near the 180 pound mark and both loom as bulwarks of the Harding forward wall.

Four individuals are fighting for the guard posts with little indication as to which pair will get the starting assignment. Tom Zook, Johnny Canterberry, Raymond Hinklin and Joe Rathell are fighting tooth and nail for the jobs, Rathell is the only one with experience, he having played some with Harding last season. None have any too much weight, and as a result the center of the Harding line is likely to be the lightest section of the front line defense. Bob Mautz appears likely to start the game at center but George Mason is another possible starter.

Vets in Backfield

At least three veterans of last season's team are likely to be in the backfield when the referee starts play Saturday. Maury Whitcum, who threatens to become one of the deadliest forward passers Harding has produced in some time, will probably do the signal calling. Red Keller, the Pony Express and John Guthrie, both of whom played last season, look like logical starters, on the basis of their experience if nothing else. Gene Hibbeln and Clarence Smith are the other principal contenders for the fourth backfield post. Whitcum is the only heavy man in this group. He will tip the Toledos at about 175 but none of the others even approach this mark.

Harding is not ready for a game with an opponent as tough as Mt. Vernon. The Yellow Jackets are always one of the toughest teams in central Ohio and this season has a forward wall composed entirely of veterans. The Mt. Vernon backfield will be green, none of them having had much experience.

The Harding eleven shows promise of developing into a fairly formidable array by mid-season but it is certain the team will be far from its peak Saturday. However, the Presidents took on Columbus South High last season as an opener and made the capital city team look like something a Scotchman had thrown away. The Marion team came through that fray with a 6-6 tie and except for a few bad breaks would have taken a 6-0 victory. Perhaps Saturday will see history repeat itself.

WHAT—AGAIN?

Vangler Howls for Second Shot at Jackson—Latter Backs Down.

These "rasslers" never seem to get enough.

Last Monday night Sammy Vangler, the rough and tough little Jewish welterweight, took a first class beating from Bulldog Jackson in a two-hour mat battle at the Steam Shovel gym. Jackson won the bout when he and Vangler crashed into each other and Vangler was knocked cold. Jackson was knocked just about as cold as Vangler but had the good fortune to fall on Vangler and was thus awarded the decision.

Now Vangler wants another shot at Jackson in the Marion ring next Monday night. Jackson says, "Nothing doing."

Matchmaker Clem Kaufman wants the match too so he has gone to the Mid-west Wrestling association to see if Jackson can't be forced to meet Vangler. If Kaufman has his way they'll meet next Monday night here.

Vangler wants it. Jackson doesn't. Now it's up to the mat moguls to say who gets his way in the matter.

YANKS HAVE SLIGHT OUTFIELD ADVANTAGE OVER CHICAGO CUBS

Margin of New York Superiority Dependent on Condition of Bambino.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Unless Babe Ruth is in much improved health a week hence, the Yankees likely will not show any advantage over the Chicago Cubs insofar as the clean-up blows of their outfielders are concerned in the forthcoming world series.

It is true the Yankees, on paper, show a heavier punch but this is offset by the fact Ruth has to contend with a bigger "tummy ache" than all the rest of the outfielders combined.

If the Babe is not in there next week doing something besides roaring his defiance to the enemy, on wobbly legs, the Cubs may pluck up sufficient courage to chase the Yankees all over Colonel Ruppert's expensive premises in the Bronx, to say nothing of what may happen on the Bruins' home lot.

Ruth is Difference

The only real difference between the two outfield groups is represented by the batting averages of Ruth and Kiki Cuyler. The unofficial season figures are .348 for Ruth and .298 for Cuyler, but that doesn't tell the real story.

Where Ruth has been laid up and lost considerable of his much-needed strength, Cuyler has come down the home stretch like a forest fire. Kiki has been producing the big clean-up wallop when the Bruins needed it. He has been hitting well over .300 for the last six weeks.

Taking these facts into consideration, plus Cuyler's far superior defensive skill and base-running ability, the Cubs figure to concede little or nothing to the American league rivals in the outfield.

The veteran Riggs Stephenson is a much more dangerous consistent hitter than Ben Chapman, the Yankees' left-hander, who will menace the opposition most when he can do his speed stuff on the bases.

Combs Edges Moore

The Kentucky colonel, Earle Combs, has the hitting edge on his centerfield rival, John Francis Moore of the Cubs, but here again speed and defensive ability is a factor in favor of the younger player.

Each club thus far has two world series veterans and one newcomer for the big battle. Chapman and Moore will have their first taste of World series action. In reserve, the Yankees have the long-hitting Sam Byrd and Myrl Hoag. The Cubs have Marvin Gudat, a useful portside hitter, and Frank Demaree, youngster brought up late this season from Sacramento.

FOURTEEN AMATEURS SIGNED FOR FIGHT CARD HERE FRIDAY

Several Towns Represented on Program in Eagles Hall Ring.

Another of the series of amateur fight programs will be presented Friday night at the Eagles hall on West Center street. At least 14 simon pure glove slingers will battle it out in four round bouts. Nothing is at stake in the fights, the principals fighting solely because they enjoy throwing leather.

Marion fighters will dominate the fights this week although several other communities are represented on the card. Some boys who are not yet matched may be added to the program, H. A. Tarr, promoter, announced today.

The complete card follows:

Paul Kappalo of Marion, 114, vs. Joe Sansota of Marion, 111; Clyde Wilson of Marion, 118, vs. Howard Hostetter of Marion, 118; Ralph Anderson of Harpster, 123, vs. Wayne Harer of Bucyrus, 120; Richard Donahue of Marion, 120, vs. Clyde Artrip of Marion, 125; Steve Gillispi of near Marion, 138, vs. Harold Burnsides of Mariel, 137; K. O. Stout of Marion, 138, vs. Donald Platt of Marion, 145, and Paul Hildreth of Marion, 185, vs. Harry Candel of Bucyrus, 165.

YOUNG PLAYERS HOLD MAJORITY OF POSTS ON ALL-CITY SOFTBALL CLUBS

Presented herewith are the selections for the three all-city softball teams for 1932, chosen by a committee representing umpires, managers and fans. Only two members of the first team this season were listed on the mythical first team in 1931. Only players who played a majority of the games this season were taken into consideration, thus eliminating from consideration some men who might be rated equally as good or possibly a bit better than a few chosen here.

All phases of play were discussed as the committee made its first, second and third team choices. In several instances, the choices were unanimous, in others the vote was split and the one receiving the most was given the preference. In a very few instances, players were shifted from their natural position if it was believed it would make for a stronger lineup.

A preponderance of younger ball players are found in the lineup this season instead of having the teams composed almost entirely of veteran stars as in former years. In cases where there was little to choose between the candidates, the younger ball player was given the benefit of any doubt.

For the first time since the practice of choosing all-city teams was started, three managers have been named to pilot the honorary nines.

These teams were picked on the basis of performance all season and not on the little World series alone. This would obviously be unfair to many stellar players whose teams were unable to capture a league championship.

There they are. Now start picking 'em to pieces.

POSITION	FIRST TEAM	SECOND TEAM	THIRD TEAM
Catchers	Conkle	Conroy	Sheehe
Pitchers	Schwaderer Shoemaker	Gunder Richards	Lindsey Applegett
First Base	Ballenger	Minard	O. Walters

Bowling Statistics

With a host of new bowlers registered on the various quintets, the Recreation bowling league commenced competition for the 1932-33 season last night at the Recreation alleys. Judging from the comparatively high scores turned in on the opening night, the maples are in for some heavy sledhacking at the hands of bowlers in this circuit before the season is completed.

Lesser of the Richman Clothes team led the assault last night, scattering the pins for a 615 score in the three-game series. Hinklin, rolling with the May Jewelers, collected 565, and Clark of the American Legion outfit rolled a 548. The Richman Clothier were high for the three-game total with a 2,315. Despite this fact, however, the Clothiers were able to take but two of the three games from the Legionnaires. Just to monopolize the opening night's activities, Lesser also grabbed the high score for a single game with 243, rolled in the first of the three starts.

TROJAN BACKFIELD BELOW PAR OF '31

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22—Coach Howard Harding Jones has switched horses, so to speak, in his tandem shaft this fall, in an effort to retain for the University of Southern California its national football honors.

One of the country's leading exponents of the full team shift, Coach Jones can't see where the Trojans will be as strong as they were last season when they bowled over Notre Dame, Tulane, Georgia, Stanford and California, what with comparatively inexperienced replacements in two important backfield positions. He admits there is little to worry about in the line.

John Holden, Ohio University Grad, Directs Marion County Eleven.

LARUE, Sept. 22—With a new mentor at the helm and eight letter men back in the field, LaRue High school is looking forward to another successful season of grid competition. The LaRue eleven compiled an enviable record last season and hopes to do even better this season. John Holden, an Ohio university man, is directing the destinies of the LaRue team this season.

Holden has four backs and four lineamen back who won letters last season. Lewis Gillespie, Delbert Greenwood, and Dale Parish, halfbacks, and Howard Wittbolger, quarterback, form the veteran ball carrying brigade. On the line Clair Willing, Norman Showers, Richard Roux and Robert Akin are again with the team. Others who played last season but did not receive letters are Sammy Allen, Boyd Freshour, Junior Gillespie and Darrell Millisor. All are classified as linemen but may be shifted if necessary by Holden.

New candidates working for positions are Donald Greenwood, Lester Jordan, Lester Littell, Orin Millisor, Robert Noyes, Robert Phillipi, Donald Snare, Tom Ruchman, Harold White and Francis Wright.

Holden is optimistic concerning his team's chances this season although he has several holes to fill.

GRAINS SLUMP IN LATE SALES

Material Setbacks Result as Splurge of Selling Hits Market.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Sept. 22 — Wheat prices underwent material setbacks late today as a result of eastern selling and of stock market reactions. Enlarged spreading operations between Chicago and other wheat marketing centers were noted, with the buying done elsewhere than Chicago. Indications pointed to likelihood of renewed heavy receipts of wheat in Canada.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1@1¼ under yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to ½ lower, oats ¼@⅝ off, and provisions varying from 3 cents decline to 7 cents advance.

LOOTED TO OHIOANS

By The Associated Press
SANDUSKY, O., Sept. 22—Only Ohioans will be considered for memberships at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' home here, Officials said the institution was filled to capacity with only a few hospital beds available.

Tests by the United States Bureau of Standards have demonstrated that automobile engines deliver more power on rainy days because the air is cooler, not because it is more humid, as generally believed.

WIENER ROAST HELD BY CHURCH SOCIETY

Salem Y. P. League Elects Officers To Fill Vacant Posts.

The Young People's league of Salem Evangelical church enjoyed a wiener and marshmallow roast last night at Gast's grove at Prospect. Officers to fill vacancies caused by young people returning to school were elected as follows: Miss Constance Reinwald, president; Harold Hittenrauch, vice president; Paul Ebert, treasurer. Miss Margaret Gehring is secretary and Clarence Pfeiffer is reporter.

The league made plans to sponsor a Sunday school Hallowe'en party late in October, the date to be arranged later. It was decided to conduct a candle light service and present a pageant early in the month. Miss Evanine Ebert, Walter Hittenrauch and Clarence Pfeiffer was named a committee to plan for the Hallowe'en party.

Starting Sunday, the devotional meetings of the league will be held on Sunday nights instead of Thursday, and the business meetings will be held the fourth Thursday of each month. Social meetings will be held quarterly. William Lloyd was named leader of the devotional meeting Sunday night. Guests of the league were Miss Rena Rider, Charles Schelter, Myron Gibson and Lawrence Claffey.

Of the world total of 35,263,397 automobiles registered at the beginning of this year 23,086,503 were owned in the United States.

PRISONERS PUBLISH UNIQUE NEWSPAPER

Journal Has Circulation of 5,000 Copies.

By United Press
JACKSON, Mich.—School News, a publication of the inmates of Michigan state prison, is a unique contribution to journalism.

The publication has a circulation of 5,000 copies, 1,100 of which are distributed outside the prison to those interested in the welfare of the inmates.

The editor of School News is "Mac" McNabb (Inmate 27038), according to the outer cover.

McNabb introduces the publication with the words: "It is the purpose of the School News to establish a feeling of amity between those who constitute society and those who are confined behind the walls."

The issue is printed on multigraph paper with an average of 18 sheets. Elaborate cover designs are drawn with a mimeograph stencil.

Various articles are advertised and cigarets are used for "money." For instance, one ad runs like this: "12 packs buys a brand new dictionary."

There also are bits of humor.

"Did you have a good chance at your trial?" asks Napp. "Oh, yes," says Sapp. "If my father had been the judge, and if I'd had 12 brothers on the jury, I'd have had a mistrial."

About a dozen men are engaged in seeing that the publication is issued each Friday.

Costs 85 Cents To Put Rheumatic Cripple Back To Work Again

Now Joyously Happy

While all his family looked on in astonishment and all his friends were amazed, one man took the pain, swelling and agony from his tortured joints in 48 hours and did it with that famous rheumatic prescription known to pharmacists as Allenru—you may do the same.

THE PORT DEARBORN MASSACRE

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the artist, N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the heartless treachery of a band of vicious Miami Indians, who massacred the settlers with inhuman ferocity... August 15, 1812.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

INDUSTRIAL COURSE TAUGHT BY WOMAN

Miss Grace Colvin Has Charge of Industrial Arts Classes at Vernon.

tic note. He built Hotel Harding and since then has been on engineering projects, mostly bridges and waterways, with a few buildings now and then, in Florida, Colombia, S. A., Baltimore, Sandusky and is now in Venezuela, S. A., working on a three-mile waterway.

Miss Colvin has taught industrial arts in the Marion schools since 1926, but this is the first year that she has had an opportunity to "go it on her own," and she's as enthusiastic over her basement room at the Vernon Heights school as any other woman would be over the prospects of furnishing a new home.

Shows the Men

To her, that basement room with its new equipment, means an opportunity for the first time of showing O. C. Ice and E. J. Baer, teachers at Thomas A. Edison and Central buildings, what a woman can do in a line of work that has heretofore been almost entirely left to the men.

She has approximately 156 boys in her seventh, eighth and ninth grade classes. Two new pieces of equipment were added this year, a band and a circular saw. The school had two motors and Mr. Ice made the standards and assembled the motors and all that was necessary for the school to buy were the two saws and their frames.

Miss Colvin brings to her work a woman's inherent knack of adding interesting little touches to her classwork that men don't seem to consider essential. She admits that she's a "crank" about having all the tools and paints, etc., in their right places.

She has added two new projects to her ninth grade shop course. One is a motor that runs like greased lightning, and the other is a transformer. These ideas she gathered from her work at Ohio State university, together with telegraph receiving and sending sets that are projects in the seventh grade. Among the projects open to her seventh grade boys are the telegraph sets, foot stool, wooden tray, necktie holder, door stop, hat hanger, sheet metal desk set, match box, scoop, art metal flower pot holders, stand and shoerack.

Eighth Grade Work

In the eighth grade the boys are at work on the telegraph sets, a radio, practically the same woodwork that is taught in the seventh grade with several additional projects, sheet metal book ends, lamp shade, an art metal bridge lamp, flower stand, shoerack and flower pot holder.

The ninth grade boys' projects include the transformer and motor, radio, footstool with carved top, a hall tree and practically the same sheet metal and art metal work that is offered in the eighth grade.

The industrial arts courses in the three junior high schools are practically the same, but Miss Colvin has some new ideas, and she's going to use them whenever the opportunity presents itself.

Miss Colvin is a member of the Quest and Altruse clubs of Marion.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel gray and rank and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral waters, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to get you rarin' to go. Your trouble is you don't get enough bile into your bowels daily.

Fat they don't do it. They only move the bowels but a three-dimensional doctor's job is the answer. You need the pure, gentle vegetable bile to flow freely. It should pour out two pounds of liquid into your bowels daily.

If your bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a sick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

Dr. Caldwell, above, and CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are just right for this trouble. They make bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Insist. 25c at all stores. © 1932 C. M. Co.

FAR FROM POLITICAL CARES

While Germany is in the throes of political chaos, former Kaiser Wilhelm is shown here, with no responsibility on his shoulders, taking it easy at Zandvoort, Holland's fashionable seaside resort. Behind the former ruler are his wife, Princess Hermione, and Dr. Plasman, his physician. Keen observers in Europe predict that in a short time Wilhem or one of his family will once more rule Germany.

Theater News and Reviews

FAR NORTH FILMED FOR IGLOO, COMING TO PALACE THEATER

"Igloo," a story of Alaska, will be shown Friday and Saturday at the Palace. Chee-Ak, an Alaskan, is featured prominently in the cast. "Igloo" is the Eskimo word for home. Kyntuk, an Eskimo girl of Point Barrow, Alaska, has the leading feminine role.

The picture was filmed in the Arctic. Much of the story was filmed in a temperature of 65 degrees below zero, during a winter at Point Barrow. The fee for transporting members of the company from Fairbanks to the location in two airplanes was $3,000. Seven months were spent at Point Barrow, but on account of the lack of sunshine, only 21 days were devoted to actual photographing.

BILL AND ANDY SHOW AT STATE

Again Bill Cody and Andy Shuford will be seen in a western. This time it's "The Law of the North," which will be shown Friday and Saturday at the State. Al St. John, who entered pictures 20 years ago as a Keystone cop, and Heinie Conklin, who made his screen debut in 1915 with Ben Turpin at Mack Sennett's, contributes the comedy.

Real entertainment is offered in "Make Me a Star," the picture which will close tonight at the Palace. The Kadgar Grotto and Marion Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring the picture.

"Make Me a Star" is "Merton of the Movies" in the talkies, and the theme has been done many times, but Stuart Erwin and Joan Bloodgett are an irresistible pair as the young man who leaves a country store to bring to Hollywood a talent that will enrich the art, and as the young actress who takes pity on him first and then falls in love with him. Sam Hardy earns praise too, for his work as the director of the boy's first picture.

Stu yearns to emulate his western picture hero, and his earnestness, combined with his correspondence school acting ability bring him a contract, but only after he discovers that the picture into which he has poured his very heart is a burlesque of his movie god's westerns. The picture has laughs galore, and pathos, too, under Erwin's handling of his role.

The program also offers the Palace theater orchestra, an accordion and singing act by two young girls, a good short comedy, a "Hodge Podge" short and a color short.

GIVES VIEWS ON UTILITIES

Roosevelt Urges Federal Control of Power Interests in Portland Speech.

ASSAILS HOOVER RECORD

Starts Swing Through California After Proposing "Remedies for Situation."

By The Associated Press

ROOSEVELT SPECIAL EN-ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22—After writing into the records his views on the regulation and control of public utilities dealing in electricity, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today was in California, whose swing from John N. Garner assured Mr. Roosevelt's nomination at the Chicago Democratic convention.

William Gibbs McAdoo, who announced the swing during the fourth roll call last July, had flown to Redding to meet the nominee and escort him through the state. McAdoo is the choice of California Democrats for the United States senate.

Assails Hoover

Mr. Roosevelt, in his Portland, Ore., address last night, the third of the four major utterances he will make on his 21-day tour of the west, outlined his views on government ownership, public utility regulation, and of President Hoover, he said:

"Since 1928 my distinguished opponent has done nothing to enforce the regulatory sections of the federal water power act.

"He has done nothing to block the financial operations incident to the great post-war development, as planned by its promoters.

"My distinguished opponent is against giving the federal government in any case, the right to operate their own power business."

In his peroration, which the crowd frequently interrupted with cheering, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"To the people of this country, I have but one answer on this subject: the natural hydro-electric power resources belonging to the people of the United States or the several states shall remain forever in their possession."

Suggests Remedies

Of his "remedies for the regulation and control of public utilities engaged in the power business and companies and corporations relating thereto," Mr. Roosevelt declared:

1—Full publicity as to all capital issues of stocks, bonds, and other securities; liabilities and indebtedness capital investment; and frequent information as to gross and net earnings; in other words, let's turn on the light.

2—Publicity on stock ownership of stocks and bonds and other securities, and this is a new one, the stock and other interests of all officers and directors.

3—Publicity with respect to all inter-company contracts and services and interchange of power.

4—Regulation and control of holding companies by federal power commission and the same publicity with regard to such holding companies as provided for the operating companies.

5—Cooperation of federal power commission with public utilities commissions of the several states obtaining information and data pertaining to the regulation and control of such public utilities.

6—Regulation and control of the issue of stocks and bonds, and other securities on the principle of prudent investment only.

7—Abolishing by law the reproduction cost theory for rate making and establishing in place of it the actual money prudent-investment principle as the basis for rate making.

8—Legislation making it a crime to publish or circulate false or deceptive matter relating to public utilities everywhere and at any time.

"I do not hold with those who advocate complete and indiscriminate government ownership or government operation of all utilities."

After he left Portland, where he also addressed a farm gathering at Gresham, near the city, Mr. Roosevelt made platform appearances at several points in Oregon.

MAN ARRESTED AS "PEEPER" FINED $50

Added Costs Makes It $75 for Cochrel; Taken to Workhouse.

Elsworth Cochrel of Jefferson street, arrested last week suspected of being a prowler and window-peeper who had been annoying residents of the East Side of the city the last several months, was given a fine of $50 and costs by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin yesterday afternoon when he changed a former plea of not guilty to guilty, on a disorderly conduct charge.

He was taken to the workhouse in Columbus this morning to work out the fine and costs, which according to municipal court clerks, will total about $75. In passing sentence Judge Martin said, "I am only sorry I am unable to give you 30 months in the workhouse instead of a $50 fine, which is the maximum fixed by law."

His arrest last week was third for him this year on similar charges. In each previous case, however, residents of the East Side were unable to identify him as the "peeper."

can happen in forty years. A revolution might smash the monopoly, and also make it a little difficult for anybody in Cuba to buy or use gasoline.

THREE METHODIST bodies have merged in one of the largest British Protestant churches. Ten thousand rejoiced in Albert hall. King George sent congratulations through his son, the Duke of York, seeing in the "merger" a token of "divine guidance and blessing and ultimate unity of Christian people, always near my heart."

That unity will come, but not immediately and Christianlly may have changed its beliefs by the time it comes, its attitude toward hell, Jonah and his whale, and a god of vengeance.

Ohio Bank Held Up.

By the Associated Press

WILMINGTON, O., Sept. 22—Two men held up and robbed the Waynesville National bank at Waynesville, 15 miles northwest of here shortly before noon today. Waving pistols, the men entered the bank and threatened employes. They then escaped up the visible currency and fled toward Wilmington in an automobile.

WOMAN INJURED AS TWO AUTOS COLLIDE

Mrs. H. C. Jamison in Delaware Hospital; Leg Broken in Crash.

Two cars came together yesterday at 3:30 p. m. near Dave's garage, two miles north of Waldo on the Delaware pike, and the driver of one of the cars, Mrs. H. C. Jamison of Findlay, is in Jane Case hospital in Delaware, suffering from a broken left leg.

According to several witnesses, Mrs. Jamison, who was driving south, pulled around a parked truck and ran into a coupe driven by William Koppelman of Brooklyn, N. Y. Koppelman, witnesses said, pulled his car towards the filling station but was unable to avoid the collision. Mrs. Jamison's three grandchildren were with her. Two teeth were knocked out and several loosened in the mouth of her 14-year-old granddaughter. Mrs. Jamison was taken to the Jane Case hospital in Delaware in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. She was enroute to Delaware to make her home. A moving van with her household furniture was a short distance away from the scene of the accident.

WITNESSES QUIZZED ON LOTTERY CHARGE

Prosecution in Davis Trial Seeks To Establish Chain of Evidence.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—A dozen witnesses filed across the witness stand at this morning session of the trial of United States Senator James J. Davis, who is charged with participating in lotteries the government says were conducted by the Loyal Order of Moose.

The witnesses were called chiefly in support of the technical aspects of the government's case to show that tickets which the prosecution calls lottery tickets were actually printed, that they were ordered by authorized agents of the Moose, and that they were delivered to such agents.

Two women were called who testified to buying such tickets, winning cash prizes, and going to Moose lodges to collect their money.

The government charged in the prosecution's opening address to the jury that Davis, as life-long director general of the fraternal order, must know of all activities of the organization and the so-called lotteries could not have been conducted without his knowledge and approval.

SHORTAGE FOUND IN COUNTY TREASURY

Bryan Official Tells Examiner $37,000 "Borrowed" for Speculation.

By The Associated Press

BRYAN, O., Sept. 22—A grand jury investigation was considered by authorities today for two Williams county officials, one of whom said they had "borrowed" $37,000 from public funds for stock market speculations.

The alleged shortage, Prosecutor Charles Stahl said, was revealed by Deputy County Treasurer Prather Hitt, after State Examiner Walter L. Dean yesterday prepared to audit the records.

Stahl quoted Hitt as saying the money was taken by Hitt and County Treasurer Lewis H. Robb, and was used to purchase stocks several months ago.

In contrast to many somewhat similar cases involving public officials, Hitt said the speculation showed a $13,000 profit, but that he and Robb had been unable to collect from a Ft. Wayne broker, who allegedly handled the transactions.

To cover the temporary shortage of funds, Hitt said checks signed by Robb were placed in the treasury, and that checks would be good if the treasurer is able to collect from the broker.

Prosecutor Stahl said he had told Robb and Hitt to make good the shortage by Monday, and that he would aid their efforts to force the broker to pay. The county will lose nothing, in any event, Stahl said, because Robb was bonded for $50,000.

County commissioners will meet with the prosecutor Saturday to decide a course of action, and to demand the resignations of Robb and Hitt, who have been in the treasurer's office six years. Robb is a candidate for re-election.

service. All cloth will be cut before being distributed for sewing. Individuals and clubs may obtain the material at the relief center and sew it either at home or at meetings of the organization. Women desiring to sew at the center may do so.

No direct cash contributions will be received by the clothing division of the center, it was indicated. Persons desiring to aid in the work may call at the center and determine what is needed and then make the purchases themselves.

Need of Clothing Stressed

There can be no hit miss fashion of handling the clothing situation this year, Dr. Sawyer, chairman of the Council of 100, said in addressing the women. The clothing problem must be met daily along with the food question.

Just what will be faced by the women of the city was outlined in chart form. Thousands and thousands of garments will be used to clothe needy families so that they will not suffer from the cold. The number of persons seeking relief is increasing from 25 to 40 each week, he said.

Various organizations and groups of the city must decide when relief is private or public, he said. The closest relationship of lay organizations is needed to prevent duplication of work, he said. When a person becomes a charge of the city, lay organizations should and must agree not to furnish them aid. If this is done there will be plenty to go around.

He outlined the clearing house plan and asked the cooperation of all groups in making it function properly. He also told of the work of the Council of 100.

GANDHI APPROACHES "DEATH FAST" CRISIS

Compromise Hurriedly Sought as Hindu Leader Weakens Rapidly.

By The Associated Press

POONA, India, Sept. 22—Mahatma Gandhi, already weakening after the first two days of his "death fast," faced the crisis of his struggle with the British government today.

"It's today or never!" said G. D. Birla of the Hindu emergency committee which has been trying to bring about a compromise over the problem of the electoral rights of the depressed classes, the cause for which the Mahatma entered upon his starvation fast Tuesday.

In the "condemned" cell of Yeroda jail, the spare and emaciated leader of India's millions continued to squat crosslegged on a webbed cot, but his voice was growing weaker when the last of his callers left him last night.

The committee was putting forth every effort today to bring about a compromise agreement which would satisfy Gandhi. The members were spurred by the belief that whatever is done must be done quickly if the Mahatma's life is to be saved.

Whatever agreement is reached must be submitted to Prime Minister MacDonald for the approval of the government. Gandhi's friends fear that in his present condition he will not last long if his fast is continued.

Dr. Bhimrao Ramji Ambedkar, leader of the 60,000,000 untouchables planned to visit the Mahatma again today following another meeting of the emergency committee.

But mostly he expects to carry on the campaign unaided. Funds are skimpy—less than $60,000 is being spent on the entire campaign, he said. There can be no extravagances. He hopes only to speak to as many persons as circumstances permit, and "spread the gospel of maintenance for every family in the country."

On the Sidelines.

President Hoover has given reassurance, to those who need it, of this nation's firm intention to stay clear of European arguments on disarmament. The state department will not bother itself with the current disturbance caused by Germany's threat to re-arm in defiance of the nations which have broken their affirmations of good faith, as stated in the arms limitation clause of the Versailles treaty.

The American people may believe anything they want to believe about European policies on disarmament, but their government, free to act independently because it is not in the League of Nations and is not a supporter of the Treaty of Versailles, officially is interested on only one thing—progressive disarmament. Its contacts with Europe, consequently, are not so much in the nature of contacts with the individual nations of Europe as with Europe as a whole.

It is reported that certain prominent Americans have given out word abroad that their countrymen believe Germany's move for armament equality was inopportune. Their accuracy as spokesmen is highly questionable. Undoubtedly, there are more Americans who believe as they have said, but there are as many more who believe Germany has chosen the only way left open to show its neighbors that it will not continue to abide by the Treaty of Versailles until they have shown some intention of fulfilling their part of the contract concerning German disarmament.

Pleading has done no good. Expression of opinion has done no good. A decade of waiting has brought nothing but disappointment. Threats are justified, under the circumstances. The United States leans more toward sympathy in its attitude than it does toward censure. Officially, however, it has no attitude but that of impartial observer—an observer hoping that nothing will happen to make progress toward actual disarmament more difficult. President Hoover's brief, concise statement was needed.

Contagious Ideas.

Active sectors in the farm strike are appearing almost as rapidly as groups of bonus marchers were coming into existence a few months ago. Questionable ideas are as contagious as sound ideas—more contagious when they circulate among dissatisfied and unhappy people.

The record of the farm strike has been full of acts of violence and distressingly free from instances of success so far. Because the strike has not been general enough to affect more than a small section of population at any one time however, it has not been taken seriously.

There is a possibility, nevertheless, that it may continue to spread until it has become a distinct menace to life. Farmers themselves can control that possibility. If they believe there is anything to be gained by the violent method offered for their approval, there is no power great enough to stop them.

Consumers are not resentful of any reasonable action agricultural producers may take to better their condition, as long as it gives promise of getting results. But there is nothing in the operation of the farm strike to indicate that it will produce results.

On the other hand, it promises to be the cause of a great deal of inconvenience and some actual suffering because of disturbed marketing conditions. Urban dwellers can not bring themselves to believe that farmers will be serving their own cause well by continuing it.

Ready for the Last Act.

As entertainment, the professional baseball season just ending has been an unqualified success. As a profitable enterprise, it may not come off favorably in comparison with other seasons. That is something for owners and stockholders to worry about.

The champions of the two major leagues, the New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs, promise a great closing act with the first game of the World series only a few days away. Already, one fan is reported to be waiting in line for the opening game in New York.

Spectators, however, will stand in a proportion of about one to 300 Americans intensely interested in every play of the national game's seasonal climax. The millions who will follow the games by radio and telegraph and who will study them over in newspapers after the last play has been made are far more important, numerically, than the few thousands who can be accommodated in the playing parks.

It is significant that this year's American league champions are a team which has made a mighty contribution to the upbuilding of baseball. The owner of the Yankees, Colonel Ruppert, has gained more than profit from his enterprise; he has helped to cover up the stain of scandal on professional baseball by giving it the attraction of color. It may be, as some say, that the day of the Yankees' superiority is passing. Be that as it may, they have been a symbol of an honest and straightforward conception of professional baseball's place in the nation's list of amusements.

The game today is established on a basis which outlaws shady practices because they are bad business. Efficient and unashamed commercialization has won public confidence. Baseball is supported because it gives the customer his money's worth. May the world series represent a bargain for all parties concerned—spectators, players, investors and every one else entitled to a share. The nation can stand a good stiff dose of entertainment.

Something in Reserve.

Americans never doubted that Gar Wood could take the hydroplane record away from England's Kaye Don whenever he decided to make a serious attempt. Mr. Wood vindicated their faith early Tuesday morning with a new high mark of 124.91 miles an hour in his 12-cylinder craft.

But Englishmen do not doubt for a moment that their speed king can get the record back if he wants to try. Probably they do not doubt that he still has a better boat, despite its failure to perform on the Detroit river recently when the Harmsworth cup was the stake.

Theoretically, therefore, elevation of the hydroplane record can continue indefinitely—at least as long as the money and the drivers hold out. Even though the record may be getting close to the point where further improvements in it will have to be made in smaller advances, there is still a long distance to go.

Mr. Wood announces that he still has plenty of power in reserve. Unleashed under exactly the right conditions, it might be able to set a record so far ahead of his foremost rival's wildest dreams that the competition would be off.

If Mr. Wood is as wise as he is efficient, however, he will give the English a chance to catch up before he makes the world gasp again. He has two axes to grind, presumably. They are publicity for his line of boats and the satisfaction of owning and driving the world's fastest boats. Both will be sharpened more effectively by keeping the contest with English boat builders, engine makers and the excellent gentleman who drives their products as even as possible. One hundred and twenty-five miles an hour in a boat is enough to sustain interest through the winter months.

Refuge for Presidents.

New York's Senator Copeland, who advises the nation to give former Presidents life membership in the senate, does not meet certain objections to such a plan—objections which arise without hesitation.

What, for instance, would be the probable effect of Mr. Hoover's presence in the senate if Mr. Roosevelt were to be elected? To give a former President such a position would amount to embarrassing his successor needlessly. It would encourage bitterness.

Furthermore, would former Presidents welcome an opportunity to end their lives in the service of the senate? Dr. Copeland deplores their "splendid solitude" and their enforced isolation from public affairs. He reasons that they would be glad to continue to give the people the benefit of their experience.

It is to be questioned, however, whether a former President's position is sometimes made an awkward one so much by reason of his withdrawal from politics as by reason of his own realization that no political office can compare with the one he has held. A former President in the senate might be in fully as much "splendid solitude" in the senate as on his estate wondering what to do with his time.

If one turns to the pure theory of representative government, he finds no justification for granting political office as an honorarium, not even to insure the continuation of what part of the electorate believed to be extraordinary ability. No provision is made for establishment of an aristocracy of leaders, other than direct election.

The adjustment problems of former Presidents are personal. There is evidence that in these days release from responsibilities after a four or an eight-year period of service is reward enough to satisfy most men.

Comment of the Press

A WIDE CHOICE.

Ohio voters are offered a varied assortment of candidates and political philosophies in the presidential election this year. Almost every shade of political thought is represented by the six tickets that will appear on the ballot.

There is no reason why any voter in Ohio can not express himself politically this fall. Would he keep the country drier than dry? There is the Prohibition party. Would he out-Russia Russia? There is the Communist party.

Are voters disciples of Karl Marx? There is the Socialist party. Do they believe with Mr. Hoover? There is the Republican party. Are they followers of Jefferson, Jackson, Cleveland and Wilson? There is the Democratic party.

Thus there is no reason for Ohioans remaining away from the polls. The ballot this year is a close approach to the ideal of democracy in that it provides ample opportunity for each voter to express himself fully and freely. If the voters fail to express themselves the reason must be sought in electoral apathy.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

326 ACCIDENTAL DEATHS.

One-fourth of the 3517 Ohio school children who died last year were killed in accidents.

Forty-two per cent of these accidents were caused by automobiles. Drowning, falls and burns were other causes.

These facts are in a report just issued by Dr. H. G. Southard, state director of health.

The actual number of accidental deaths among school children was 893, of which 384 were automobile deaths.

Which is a timely reminder to motorists to be particularly careful when children are playing in the streets or crossing them to or from school.

While many accidents result from the carelessness of the children themselves, the driver must remember that it is he who has control of the deadly instrument.—Columbus Citizen.

THE "OVERCROWDED" PROFESSIONS.

Depression or no depression, 1,250,000 young men and women enter college halls this month to carry on their higher education. Reports from over the country show there will not be any significant drop in enrollment.

About 500 more doctors will be added this year to the medical profession than death will take away. The legal profession, already overcrowded, will be adorned by several hundred more lawyers. Education, jammed up with teachers waiting hopelessly for jobs, will find thousands of new graduates filing applications for the dwindling supply of posts.

While America, in post-war years, was installing more manufacturing plant capacity than it could use, it was also installing more educational plant capacity than it could use. Americans, climbing the well-known ladder, started too many new businesses, and too many new careers.

And yet, just as millions go hungry while factory goods pile up, so do millions go without medical attention, without adequate schooling, while physicians, teachers and other professional men complain of "overcrowding."

"Overproduction" within the factories is the same as "overcrowding" within the professions. Both are due, not to a lack of need for factory goods or professional services, but to a lack of money to pay for them. Once that is remedied, by an increase in mass purchasing power, this nation could use all that its factories produce, and all the services of all its professional men.

The doctor, the school teacher and the manufacturer have precisely the same interest in improving labor's position.—Philadelphia Record.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Backwardness in School Pupils.

Before school begins, or soon after, the children should be inspected. This is the time to take your youngsters to the doctor for physical examination. All physical defects, such as enlarged tonsils and adenoids, impaired eyesight or hearing, or dental decay, should be given attention, and there should be vaccination against smallpox and inoculations against diphtheria and other infectious diseases.

During the winter months a child may be stricken with a severe attack of tonsilitis. Immediate operation is never advised, because of the infection, high fever and the lowered health of the child. The mother is cautioned about the child's health and advised to have the tonsils and adenoids removed at an appropriate time. Perhaps you attended to this during the summer. If you did, the operation did not necessitate any loss of time from school.

Unfortunately, many mothers follow advice during the acute illness, but forget about the operation. The child returns to school in the Fall and is exposed to infectious and colds. He repeats his sad experience of the previous winter and, in addition to losing time from school, injures his general health.

In a recent survey on the health of the school child, made by the United States Public Health Service, six conditions were most frequently found as the cause of sickness. They were decayed teeth, defective vision, diseased tonsils, enlarged glands, ear trouble and enlarged thyroid glands. There is no doubt that most of the time lost from school because of these ailments could have been prevented. These physical defects would have been discovered if the children had been examined by a doctor during the vacation.

But there is no use crying over spilled milk. If it wasn't done then, it can be done now.

A great deal has been written about the value and necessity of periodic health examinations for adults, but too little emphasis has been placed upon the importance of periodic health examinations for children. Unlike adults, children can not interpret pain. Often they do not tell their parents when they have pain, and it requires a careful examination to determine their condition.

I know how busy the average mother is. She has a multitude of things to look after, particularly in this time of limited income and general distress. I am not saying this today to add to her misery. Far from it! My thought is to remind her that, with all her worries, she mustn't forget the vital necessity of having the children inspected now and then.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. E. GALBREATH

STRAW VOTE IN 1828.

If any one supposes that the straw vote method of ascertaining political sentiment in advance of an election is a strictly modern invention, he may have his mind disabused of the notion by perusal of an item in an old Ohio newspaper published not long before the election of General William Henry Harrison as President.

The story tells of how guests at taverns were requested to write opposite their name on the register the person he would prefer for President and that nine out of every ten were for Harrison with a few for Van Buren and a few for Clay.

A short time after the Whigs held their state convention in Columbus and while resolutions were adopted praising Webster and Clay to the skies when it came time to nominate a President the convention was almost unanimous for Harrison. Both the convention and the election later bore out the accuracy of straw votes, even in those early times.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Sept. 22—These gentlemen in charge of Republican campaign speakers are busy now asking themselves how it happened that they overlooked Dolly Gann as a spellbinder back in 1928.

For the sister and official hostess of Vice President Curtis has developed into one of their prize orators on the stump. She is regarded as a big gun of the Republican artillery, and a strong drawing card.

And probably no one is more surprised than Mrs. Gann herself at her success.

At first she confined her speeches to more or less obscure gatherings of women here and there more for the fun of it than anything else. She probably would have laughed then if some one had suggested she would soon be graduated into the big league class of political speakers.

But she has. G. O. P. chieftains now use her on tough assignments just as they would a man. And the jovial, dynamic "second lady of the land" has made good in their estimation with a bang.

Just how good she is Representative Ramseyer of Iowa, head of the Republican campaign speakers' bureau, has testified. He is authority for the statement that he gets more requests for her than he can fill.

Her success, perhaps, lies in an uncanny ability to size up an audience and talk to them about their interests. If her audience is composed mostly of women she tells them what President Hoover has done for child welfare, for the home. She doesn't mention "Brother Charlie" Curtis in her speeches. Her praise is bestowed on Mr. Hoover.

She talks about her brother after she has made her speech. If she is asked about him privately, it is then that she gives the Curtis side of it.

Last winter in Omaha the political committeewoman asked her to come out to help combat champions of the anti-prohibition cause in that section.

The day that Mrs. Gann was to make her speech a terrific blizzard swept through Omaha. The sponsors were convinced no one would turn out in that storm to hear a political speech even if it was to be delivered by Dolly Gann.

But when the hour for her speech arrived the hall was packed.

Daily Talk to Parents

RESPECT FOR MATERIALS.

One of the things which it is important for a child to learn is respect for the materials with which he works and plays.

The child does not naturally conserve and care for the things in his environment, but he can soon learn to take pleasure in doing so if he is properly trained.

Most important to this end is it that grown-ups set him a good example in orderliness and in the care they take of tools and furniture.

His own toys should be sturdily made so that they will not break easily. If they are not, pleasure in seeing them fall to pieces may take the place of playing with them properly.

The child should not have too many toys at a time, and from the very beginning a place should be set aside for them where, with his mother's help, he may learn to keep them properly.

Thus blocks can not be thrown, nor is a doll suitable for scrubbing up the floor. One uses crayons only upon sheets of paper and a hammer is good for pounding only at the work bench or out of doors.

Play materials which become broken should be put aside for repair and an interesting ceremony should be made of putting them in order again.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, Sept. 22, 1922.

The sixty-seventh congress came to a close, praised by Republican leaders as one of the most constructive sessions in recent history and assailed by Democrats as a "do-nothing congress." Senator McCormick, Republican of Illinois, declared that legislation enacted had reduced the national debt $1,000,000,000 and lifted the nation from industrial paralysis to the path of prosperity.

The performance of Warren Anson of Prospect Centralized school, who scored a high jump of five feet and eleven inches, was the outstanding feature of the Marion county centralized schools' athletic meet at the fairgrounds.

Before adjourning sine die, the U. S. senate confirmed a list of nominations, including that of Walter T. Prendergast of Marion to be secretary of a legation of embassy. The appointment was to be made by the state department.

Jeff Davis of Cincinnati, known throughout the nation as the "king of hoboes," addressed an audience of several hundred persons from the courthouse steps. He pleaded for religious and racial tolerance.

The Prospect Township Girls' club was awarded first place in the Marion county girls' food club exhibits at the county fair for an average grade of 91.85.

Warren McKay, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Marden, died at the parents' home south of La Rue.

Bethlehem Grange met at its hall near Waldo and arranged for the golden jubilee celebration of the Marion county granges to be held at Waldo Oct. 14 with State Grange Master Harry Caton as the principal speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. William Denman entertained with a 6 o'clock dinner at their home on Barnhart street in honor of Mrs. Elmer Borden of Centerburg.

Surf-boiled.

Now that it has been proved that Washington stood up while crossing the Delaware we know it wasn't a canoe.—Toledo Blade.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, Sept. 22, 1912.

A large number of Americans were reported to be endangered by a revolt in Foo Chow, China. Fighting was in progress and all foreigners were warned to assemble in their own legations and prepare to defend themselves.

Miss Daisy Leona Messenger and Harrison Clifford Rice, both of Marion, were united in marriage by Dr. C. R. Harighurst at Epworth M. E. parsonage.

Rev. J. W. Miles was returned for another year as pastor of the First United Brethren church here at the annual session of the Sandusky conference, which held its closing session at Chicago Junction.

Miss Lillian Williams of Marion and Henry C. Owens, Jr. of Toledo were married by Rev. G. M. Rourke at the First Presbyterian parsonage.

Miss Fay Huber left for Washington to continue her studies at Visitation convent.

Miss Beatrice Rockstahler of Toledo was a guest of Miss Clara Hecker at her home on Windsor street.

Mrs. John Vestal, 76, died at her home on Pearl street after an illness of several years.

Dr. and Mrs. Z. B. Houghton entertained with a family dinner at their home on Girard avenue in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Houghton and Arnold Houghton, who had recently returned from a trip abroad, and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Longwell of California. Mrs. Longwell was formerly Miss Rose Houghton.

Mrs. Edward Miller entertained at dinner at her home on Fairground street in honor of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mead, who were recently married.

Automobile traffic was not as dangerous as it was destined to become 20 years later and a comparatively small toll of dead and injured called for prominent newspaper accounts. For instance, The Star gave a large heading on its first page to the report of one killed and nine injured in Sunday traffic at Pittsburgh.

Europe Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

At Sea, Sept. 22—The ship slogs along in a vastness of blinking brilliance. Breakfasting betimes, I pilfered a red rose from the table, bedecked my lapel and began a circle of the deck, jauntily. But my buoyancy was short lived as a wave's break. A smartie, passing, cried: "Ah, Young Man of Manhattan."

Catastrophes are born of inconsequentials. Two ship acquaintances are berth-bound today. One was in high spirits until, on a clean sweep of scrubbed deck he saw a dottie of tobacco from an emptied pipe. The other, at dinner, was served that atrocious delicacy, cock's combs in jelly.

Both, untrussed, lay in wan languor, eyes bright, but curiously empty. I exhausted my sick-bed supply of jocoserie but it seemed only to annoy. So I left them to their grouches—and perhaps tastes—or dark brindle. Incidentally, a school teacher on board keeps her mind off mal de mer by conjugating "to live."

Harry Silvey seems to have abandoned vagrant amours of a six-day crossing and has consecrated his life to acquiring a Nubian coating on the sun deck. With his snow crown, he already suggests a white-turbaned Moroccan potentate. I shall introduce him in Paris as Agha Sil Vey.

I've fallen in love with a 14-months-old innocent, with questioning brown eyes and hair of sparkling golden. Her nurse in our corridor is teaching her to walk in leather harness. She wobbles into grinning squats. My wife said, it recalled some one's long ago Saturday night walk. But didn't say whose!

Kenneth C. Collins, likely the most highly paid advertising man in the world, is a passenger. We have mutual friends but never met until a tea roundup in Jean Tiller's suite—and is it a palazzo!—today. Collins is youngish, alert and shining with sophistication. He is one of those astonishing successes America so frequently spawns. Broke, jobless and pretty much a failure, he was selected by the head of a department store for an executive post. Like many others given The Big Chance, he proved a whirlwind. And his hat fits him still.

An ocean trip gives a man and wife a chance to talk things over in a way so often difficult in New York's violent jangle. It is surprising how many sentimentalities hurly-burly crowds out. Again tonight in the fuscous twilight watched the huge ship cutting path of choppy phosphorescence. Gripped by so lovely a vision, a long silence, I ventured: "I've been unusually lucky and rather happy, don't you think?" She touched my hand ever so lightly somehow conveyed enormous meaning. After all, is there anything the wide world so startlingly eloquent as silence?

In the clutch of this softening mood, I wandered back into the ship's lounge but there was something jarring about its rather forced gaiety, and I found myself returning to the solace of the clear blue evening. And I sat there quite til the sun sank in its flame of crimson. One gets that way on an ocean voyage. You know, mystic.

• • •

Pinkcheeked Dudley Field Malone is nowhere on the ship. In some 20 crossings I never miss him one way or the other. I'll likely pick him up, along with Gilbert Miller and the usual quota of Vanderbilts, returning.

Only one passenger is going in for free-hand Spencerian drinking. He is reputedly a rubber plantation owner—broad shouldered, suspicious eyed, glum. His tipple is brandy in wide flanged glasses and from early until late he sits at a remote table, rolling, inhaling and sipping, talking to no one. Last evening, he was called by a courier on some mission. Returning, he stood swaying in the doorway until a quick lurch sent him bobbing to his corner. "Our big rubber man is bouncing," observed Mrs. Reginald Wright Kauffman, who up to that time had said very little.

Two blades in berets, breezing into the bar for aperitifs, sprung a pair of new ones—at least to me. One ordered a Blue Blazer and the other a Thunderclap. They sound hot-cha.

For a trifling purchase in the ship shop I tendered a half dollar. The cashier, shaking his head, said: "I can't take that dir." I suggested acridly he might then give it to the company. A man, standing by, said he was an American banker and would like to examine the coin. I snatched it quicker than that and ran like everything.—Copyright, 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

"NO-GIRL" AND "YES-WOMAN."

The most intriguing line I have read in a long while is that which heads the advertisement of a new book by Alan Brenor Schultz.

"She treated men as men treat women," it runs. And apparently she got everything she wanted or went after in life. But, how did she treat them? Did she bully them one moment, pet them the next, and forget them, the next? I must read that book.

• • •

Funny, but the one thing on earth that a man can't seem to stand from a woman is uniform and continuous good treatment. It frightens him in the beginning, gets on his nerves in the end and bores him most of the time.

The girl who has learned to "treat 'em rough" in a careless, kindly good-natured way can turn them away with a smile, every day in the week. She can have them standing in line, waiting patiently for a casual pat on the head or a glint of friendly response in the eye.

They will hang around doggedly until she finishes dancing with some other man or playing a fourteen or replenishing her make-up—and then come running like little fools at the first whistle.

They will cheerfully accept her gentle turn-down or her weakly alibi for breaking a date—and call up again, next day, just as though she had pinned a medal on their chests and kissed them on both cheeks.

They will run errands for her, let her order them about, and think they are specially favored when she permits them to do odd jobs around the house.

• • •

While the girl who is always ready and waiting at the other end of the telephone, always bubbling over with cordiality and warm-hearted response, always prompt for a date, always ringing them up and always sweeter than sweet, has to coax them to come around to play with her.

• • •

A man understands a girl who "treats men as a man treats men"—casually, gaily and lightly. His love will blossom like the rose under a woman's cool, sweet indifference; but it seems to shrivel up under the warm actinic rays of her encouragement. He puts her in a "No-girl" to a "Yes-woman" in a day.

All of which is very hard on the normal woman, whose one delight in this life is to mother, coddle and please some man, to be frank with him, be honest and generous with him, and do everything she can to make him happy. Because women are naturally tender, responsive and maternal fish in love; and they can only be hard-boiled, when they are not in love.

It is a terrible cross to a woman to face the fact that the only man of whose response and devotion she can be perfectly sure, is the man to whom she is a little indifferent—and whom she can, therefore, treat "as men treat women."

• • •

But the author of that illuminating statement has written a book full of philosophy, in seven short words. The only question is: do any normal girl treat men as men treat women? — Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

DR. HUCKE LECTURES AT CHURCH DINNER

First Reformed Minister Gives 15-Minute Talk; Others To Follow.

"So much of life seems uneventful, heedless and without purpose and therefore the tragedy of the average life is that it begins by chance, matures haphazardly, follows the line of least resistance, exhausts its energies in routine activities and ends without the realization of any splendid objectives," Dr. Robert W. Hucke said last night at the First Reformed church in a 15-minute lecture following a dinner. The meeting was the first of a series of weekly Wednesday night dinner meetings which Dr. Hucke has planned. The meeting is an hour in length and consists of dinner, an address by Dr. Hucke and music led by Asa Queen, with Mrs. Hucke at the piano.

"The deeper meanings of life, the surging joys and the hidden powers are all lost to the average person," he continued. "Life is capable of a thousand thrills and joys and achievements which we never dream about, but as we go on we want to experience the more glorious, purposeful, healthful and radiant life."

Dinner was served by the Loyal Daughters Bible class. In one week Dr. Hucke will lecture on "The Real You."

Among the things needed immediately, in order that the activities may get under way at once, are dumbbells, punching bags, boxing gloves, basketball equipment and volleyballs and nets.

The donation of a piano or organ for use in the junior department on the second floor of the hall also would be most acceptable, Captain Hunter said. Any contributions will be called for by phoning 7168.

Mt. Gilead Woman Charges She Was Permanently Hurt in Mishap.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Sept. 22—Lulu E. Mace has filed suit in the common pleas court for $10,000 from F. W. Hunteberger, Leonard Dowler, and the C. R. Chappelear Co., as a result of an automobile collision east of Mt. Gilead in which she was injured permanently, the petition alleges.

The collision occurred at the time a temporary bridge was in use over Sam's creek two miles east of Mt. Gilead on the Mansfield road. The Mace car and the car driven by Dowler and owned by Hunatberger collided. The petition alleges that Dowler was driving recklessly and negligently and that the bridge construction company was negligent because loose clay and other material had been left in the roadway.

Hemorrhoids Go Quick

All Pile Misery Ended Without Cutting or Salves

Itching, bleeding or protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you really remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the lower bowel and hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and suppositories fail because only an internal medicine that stimulates the circulation and drives out the impure blood can actually correct the cause of piles. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Henney & Cooper and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID Tablets with guarantee they will end your Pile misery or money back.—Adv!

My Beauty Hint

BY PEGGY MONTGOMERY

THE very young girl need not rouge to give her cheeks color.

Drinking lots of water, I find, not only brightens joline, but helps keep my skin clear and my eyes bright.

No water with meals, but seven or eight glasses during the day and evening, is my drinking rule.

"Who is Eisenthal?"

It certainly seemed safe enough to answer her.

"A fellow I met down there."

He got a frown, and a clear indignant look.

"What was he?"

"A chemist," said Ferdinand.

"You mean — an experimental chemist."

"Yes—that was quick of you."

She shook her head.

"Why could he make the guerilla chief do as he liked?"

"Chemists are sometimes useful."

"How was Eisenthal useful?"

"A handy fellow," said Ferdinand. "Dont you know?"

"Well, yes, I know."

"Are you going to tell me?"

"Well, that's what I don't know."

"Why?" He saw a faint sensitive clouding of those eager eyes. Her lips parted. "You're not going to tell me—"

"Eisenthal was a genius gone wrong. He looked like any other professor, only more respectable, and he'd a fierce brain. And he'd got an invention that had been extraordinarily useful to that guerilla chief."

"What was it?" said Nan.

"What'll you do if I tell you?"

"I won't tell anyone."

He began to speak in the sort of voice that barely carries a yard:

"About a month before he'd captured me, Pedro Ramirez had brought off a little coup. He was carrying on operations in the Madalena district and harassing the government quite a bit. Then the government turned nasty and sent up some real troops—and that's where he brought off his coup.

"There were three trains, and they left Madalena at three-hour intervals. The first of them ran off the line on the edge of the big pass where it enters the hills. It went down a couple of hundred feet, and there weren't many survivors. The second train crashed through the parapet of the bridge over the Madalena river about five miles short of the hills. And the third ran off the track only 10 miles out of Madadena."

"How?" said Nan.

"Eisenthal," said Ferdinand.

F. F. waved his hand towards the sea.

"Yes—but how?"

"I'm not a chemist, but I got the idea that Eisenthal had invented a thing that disintegrated certain substances. The man who told me said he's seen the ties where those three trains left the line, and they were just mush."

Nan looked at him with eyes like saucers.

"But, F. F.—the first train got as far as the hills."

He nodded.

"Why didn't it crash sooner? It must have run over the places where the other two trains went off, and the second train must have run over the bit of track where the third one crashed."

"Yes. You're bright—aren't you? I was bright, too. I said to the man who told me, 'Look here, what are you telling me?' He said, 'I don't know—but as I told you, so it happened.' Afterwards I asked Eisenthal. I'm an inquisitive man, and I like to know how things happen, so when I got a chance I asked him, and he told me it was all a matter of careful timing.

"You spray the stuff on, and it takes just so long to make a thing soft, and so much longer to rot it through. It must all be calculated very carefully. The place where the first train crashed was done first. It ran over the other two places before they'd got dangerous."

Nan looked away to the distant blue of the sea. She said under her breath:

"The stuff made wood rotten?"

"So I'm told."

"Jervis' bridge was rotten."

"That's when I began to think about Eisenthal.

Nan turned round quickly.

"What happened to Eisenthal?"

"I'm not quite sure. I think he's dead."

"He's not . . .?"

"Leonard? Not on your life! All I know is that they were both in Mexico at the same time — but that's not very incriminating for Leonard."

"Will you tell Jervis?"

He shook his head.

"Not a bit of good telling Jervis. I shall keep my eyes open. Don't you want any coffee? I think we've been admiring the view just about as long as we'd better."

Robert Leonard was sipping his coffee. He looked cool and comfortable. He smiled pleasantly at Nan and engaged her in conversation while Janet Tetterley transferred her attentions to Ferdinand, George Tetterley kept his paper firmly between himself and the outside world. After a little while a steady rhythmical sound came from behind it.

WILL SHE BE NEXT MRS. CHAPLIN?

Because he stayed up all night so as to be on hand to bid "bon voyage" to Paulette Goddard (above), who was leaving Hollywood for New York, and kissed her a fond farewell as she entered the plane that bore her away, Dame Rumor hints that Charlie Chaplin (inset) takes more than a friendly interest in the platinum blonde actress. In fact, it is whispered she may be the next Mrs. Chaplin. Miss Goddard was formerly married to Edgar James, New York clubman, and is a former Ziegfeld Follies beauty.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Samuel Brixton's Bitter Denunciation of Owen Gingham Lee Chow's Opinion That Owen Directed the Kidnaping.

FOR a tense second after that hoarse cry from the stretcher upon which Samuel Brixton lay, there was no slightest sound from any one of us gathered in the eerie rendezvous near the lonely mountain farmhouse where Marion and Carolyn were held prisoners. That fervid curse upon his brother curiously enough sounded like the deliberate utterance of a sane man instead of the wild muttering of a delirious one. Taken in conjunction with Hugh Grantland's mention of Charles Owen's name as being connected with the "most important news" brought by Lee Chow it was enough to leave us all breathless with the conviction of a fantastic conjecture turned to reality.

Charles Owen's Part

Charles Owen had been involved in the kidnaping plot; was in all probability the moving spirit, behind it. That was the thought which had been in all of our minds when we had learned that the girls had been kidnaped. But the unmistakable evidence that Owen was in a Philadelphia hotel, coupled with the attack on Samuel Brixton, and the message indicating that the bandit Chinese were behind the ransom notes, had made us acquit Owen. But now—I felt a bit dizzy as I conjectured the possible meaning of the words just uttered.

"Where is Charles?" Samuel Brixton's hoarse voice sounded again, and Hugh Grantland moved swiftly to the side of the stretcher and bent over the injured man.

"Do you want to see your brother?" he asked gently.

Sam Brixton Speaks

The stretcher had been set down so near to me that I could see Mr. Brixton's convulsive attempt to raise himself to a sitting posture, an attempt which Hugh thwarted with firm but tender hands.

"Don't move!" he warned. "You'll hurt yourself. But tell us about your brother."

There was no answer for a second or two, only the sound of labored breathing. Then there came halting but fervid, emphatic words.

"Don't call him that," the hoarse voice said, and then he consigned his relative to the lowest possible dungeon of eternal punishment, choking and gurgling over the words in a fashion so nerve-racking that I had to summon all my will power to keep from rushing away out of hearing.

"I only want to see him once," the choked voice went on, "just long enough to kill him. I want to twist the life out of his lying carcass! He promised me, the devil, that he—"

His voice died away, and Hugh bent lower.

"Promised you what?" he asked gently, but there was no answer, and an instant later the voice began again the incoherent murmuring which we had heard ever since the rag had been taken away.

"Nothing more to be learned from him," Hugh said, turning away. "But what he has said fits in perfectly with the news Lee Chow has brought us. Will you tell them?" He turned to the Chinese standing behind him, as immobile as a bit of carved jade from his distant homeland.

How He Found Out

"Please!" Lee Chow made of the word a denial and a plea. "You can relate the story much better. But—how much time have we?"

"Ample." Hugh assured him. "We are all ready to go forward and surround the house as soon as Gra—Dick Graham gives us the signal by flying low over the farmhouse."

I hoped that I was the only one to catch the hesitancy in Hugh's speech. But I felt my cheek flaming in the darkness as I realized the reluctance but reserved formality that lay behind Hugh's utterance of my husband's name.

"Then tell them," Lee Chow said, and I had the odd impression of a captain giving the signal for an advance.

"Let us stand close together!" Hugh's voice was a command, and with the exception of "Hen-ner-y" —whom Wynne promptly detailed to watch over Samuel Brixton—we obeyed him. I wondered if it were accident that after the general shuffle, I found Hugh standing so close to me that only by keeping my body rigidly erect could I avoid the pressure of my shoulder against his.

"From the first," Hugh began, his voice muted even lower than his previous speech, "the suspicion that Charles Owen was the fountain head of this outrage has never been absent from Lee Chow's mind. The rest of us, I think, shifted base when Owen's alibi, his being ill in the Philadelphia hotel, was apparently established, and when the element of the Chinese bandits was injected into the situation. But Lee Chow did not change his original opinion, and with the patience and persistence so characteristic of him, he kept up his watch of Owen's room and evolved an ingenious scheme for finding out the truth."

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Sept. 23

WHILE this day holds auguries of a generally prosperous and successful state of affairs, this does not hold good for those in the employment of others, who should be careful to safeguard their positions and not to offend their superiors. Otherwise there will be much impetus to move forward in a resourceful and brave manner, with some financial gain and the cooperation of those in power. It might be well to act carefully and amiably in all personal contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an active and enterprising year, especially in those affairs assumed on their own responsibility. Employment is not happily aspected but independent initiative is encouraged, with the promise of assistance of those in places power and influence. Personal contacts should be agreeably directed, as these may breed annoyance or sorrow. A child born on this day should be energetic, enterprising and ambitious and should attain a fair place on its own initiative, rather than in employment of others.
